

THE W. A. WILDE COMPANY, in addition to its books for young people and Sunday-school teachers and superinten-

the evangelist, a discerning, well-poised intellect, and a fine reputation as an educational administrator. Although only forty-three years of age, Dr. Hughes has served eleven years as pastor, six years as college president at Greencastle, Ind., before being elected a Bishop. For five years he was a member of the State Board of Education of Indiana, and has been able to study the subject on which he has written from many points of view.

BISHOP EDWIN H. HUGHES.

Author of "Teaching of Citizens." Copyright 1909. W. A. Wilde Company.

dents, has just published "The Teaching of Citizenship," by Dr. Edwin Holt Hughes, until recently president of the DePauw University, and recently elected Bishop of the Methodist-Episcopal Church. Three distinctive qualities, in the opinion of those who know him, have placed him in the position of trust and responsibility which he has held—the spirit of